AN ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY ON CHRISTIAN APOLOGETICS © 2017 Richard G. Howe, Ph.D.

General

- Beckwith, Francis J., William Lane Craig, and J. P. Moreland, eds. To Everyone an Answer: A Case for the Christian Worldview. Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity Press, 2004. A collection of articles in honor of Norman L. Geisler addressing the latest aspects of the debate. Deals with faith and reason, God's existence, the case for Jesus, the problem of evil, postmodernism, religious pluralism and Christian exclusivism, and more. (396 pp., bio on Geisler with a bibliography of his works, footnotes, name, subject and scripture indices.)
- Boa, Kenneth D., and Robert M. Bowman, Jr. Faith Has Its Reasons: An Integrative Approach to Defending Christianity. Second Edition. Colorado Springs: Navpress, 2005. Deals with the major themes in apologetics, with the added touch of covering various approaches to the apologetic task by different apologists throughout history. (658 pp., bibliography, chapter endnotes, list of tables and charts, name, subject and scripture indices)
- Campbell-Jack, W. C., and Gavin McGrath. New Dictionary of Christian Apologetics. Leicester, England: Inter-Varsity Press; Downers Grove: InterVarsity Press, 2006. The latest installment of articles on a wide array of topics from a great number of contributors, many of whom are not often seen in the US in other standard works of this type since they hail from Europe. There is an obvious absence of any acknowledgment of the contribution of Norman L. Geisler (nor is he even a contributor) to apologetics, even when it would be most expected. (779 pp., name, subject, article indices).
- Copan, Paul. That's Just Your Interpretation: Responding to Skeptics Who Challenge Your Faith. Grand Rapids: Baker Book House, 2001. "That's Just Your Interpretation' provides incisive answers to Challenges related to truth and reality, worldviews, and Christian doctrine. ... This book ... will help you defend your faith, even when confronted with the toughest questions." [from the cover] (240 pp., end notes, bibliography)
- . True for You, But Not for Me: Deflating the Slogans that Leave Christians

 Speechless. Minneapolis: Bethany House Publishers, 1998. A straightforward response to such criticisms as "Who are you to judge?" "If you grew up in India, you'd be a Hindu!"

 "People claim that Elvis and JFK are alive too!" and more. (192 pp., end notes, discussion questions)
- Corduan, Winfried. No Doubt About It: The Case for Christianity. Nashville: Broadman & Holman Publishers, 1997. A thorough Christian apologetic by a contemporary Christian philosopher. (279 pp., subject, scripture, name indices, chapter resources and study guides)
- Craig, William Lane. Reasonable Faith: Christian Truth and Apologetics. Wheaton, IL: Crossway, 1984. Originally published by Moody press as Apologetics An Introduction, this works is a scholarly apologetic introduction dealing with faith and reason, the

- existence of God, the problem of miracles, the problem of historical knowledge, and the resurrection. (349 pp. bibliography, endnotes, index)
- Dembski, William A. and Michael R. Licona, eds. Evidence for God: 50 Arguments for Faith from the Bible, History, Philosophy, and Science. Grand Rapids: Baker, 2010. Includes contributions from L. Russ Bush III, Paul Copan, William A. Dembski, Gary R. Habermas, and others. (272 pp., endnotes)
- Feser, Edward. The Last Superstition: A Refutation of the New Atheism. South Bend: St. Augustine's Press, 2008. A hard-hitting response to the "new" atheism bring to bear the philosophical perspectives and arguments from the Aristotelian/Thomistic perspective. (299 pp., endnotes, index)
- Geisler, Norman L. Baker Encyclopedia of Christian Apologetics. Grand Rapids: Baker, 1999. Geisler's magnum opus, probably the single best investment one can make in apologetic books. (841 pp., bibliography, article index, scripture index)
- Geisler, Norman. Christian Apologetics. 2nd ed. Grand Rapids: Baker, 2013. One of the earliest apologetics books to treat worldviews. (480 pp., footnotes, bibliography, index)
- Geisler, Norman L. and Paul K. Hoffman. Why I Am a Christian: Leading Thinkers Explain Why They Believe. Grand Rapids: Baker, 2001. "Offers compelling answers that will help free Christians from doubt and clear away obstacles to faith for unbelievers." [from the cover] Includes essays from William Lane Craig, Barry R. Leventhal, J. Budziszewski, J. P. Moreland and more. (318 pp., end notes)
- Geisler, Norman L. and Chad Meister, eds. Reasons for Faith: Making a Case for the Christian Faith. Wheaton, IL: Crossway, 2007. A festschrift in honor of Bob and Gretchen Passantino. Contributors include Josh McDowell, John Warwick Montgomery, H. Wayne House, E. Calvin Beisner, J. P. Moreland, Francis J. Beckwith, Winfried Corduan, R. Douglas Geivett, Richard G. Howe, Gary R. Habermas, Ron Rhodes, and Douglas Groothuis.
- Geisler, Norman L. and Frank Turek. I Don't Have Enough Faith to Be an Atheist. Wheaton, IL: Crossway Books, 2004. An easily read work covering an amazing amount of ground. This book constitutes a fleshing out of Geisler and Turek's talk "12 Points that Prove Christianity is True." (447 pp., end notes, general and scripture indices)
- Hindson, Ed and Ergun Canner, eds. The Popular Encyclopedia of Apologetics: Surveying the Evidence for the Truth of Christianity. Eugene, OR: Harvest House Publishers, 2008. A handy, concise guide to a wide range of apologetic topics and figures. Over sixty contributors including David Beck, Norman Geisler, Gary Habermas, Richard Howe, Tom Howe, Barry Leventhal, and Michael Licona.

- Kreeft, Peter. Between Heaven and Hell: A Dialog Somewhere Beyond Death With John F. Kennedy, C. S. Lewis and Aldous Huxley. Downers Grove, IL: Inter-Varsity Press, 1982, expanded edition, 2008. A very delightful, imaginary conversation between C. S. Lewis, John F. Kennedy, and Aldous Huxley (the Christian, the Humanist, and the Pantheist) on God, the Bible, and Jesus Christ. Written in a "Socratic" dialogue. Excellent apologetic on the differences between Christianity and eastern religions (the New Age Movement). (144 pp., appendices, index)
- Kreeft, Peter, and Ronald K. Tacelli. Handbook of Christian Apologetics: Hundreds of Answers to Crucial Questions. Downers Grove, InterVarsity, 1994. One of the few popular-level apologetic books that utilize classical (Thomistic) arguments for God's existence. (406 pp., subject, Scripture indices)
- Lewis, C. S. Mere Christianity: What One Must Believe to Be a Christian. New York: Macmillan Publishing, 1943. A classic work that includes Lewis' BBC address of The Case for Christianity, Christian Behavior and Beyond Personality. (190 pp.)
- Little, Paul E. Know Why You Believe: A Clear Affirmation of the Reasonableness of the Christian Faith. Downers Grove, IL: Inter-Varsity Press, 1968. A very good introduction to the issues. Chapter titles include, "Is Christianity Rational?", "Is There a God?", "Is the Bible the Word of God", "Do Science and Scripture Conflict?", "Why Does God Allow Suffering?" (110 pp., footnotes, bibliography)
- McDowell, Josh. The New Evidence that Demands a Verdict. Nashville: Thomas Nelson Publishers, 1999. Full update of volumes one and two of Evidence that Demand a Verdict, with the aid of a team of researchers from Southern Evangelical Seminary with Norman Geisler. (760 pp., author and subject indices)
- Meister, Chad V. Building Belief: Constructing Faith from the Ground Up. Grand Rapids: Baker, 2006. Meister leads the reader through his "Apologetics Pyramid" dealing with the challenge of whether anything is really true, the question of God's existence, universal morals and values, the reliability and divine inspiration of the Bible, the resurrection of Christ, and ultimately, the good news that Jesus is the Son of God who offers salvation to the world." [from the cover] (227 pp., end notes, index)
- Moreland, J. P. Scaling the Secular City: A Defense of Christianity. Grand Rapids, MI: Baker Book House, 1987. Probably one of the best single apologetics book available. Deals with the most current objections to the faith. Must reading. (267 pp., footnotes, bibliography)
- Nash, Ronald H. The Gospel and the Greeks. Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan/Probe, 1984. Originally titled Christianity and the Hellenistic World, this work examines the charges that Christianity borrowed its teachings from Greek philosophy and early pagan and mystery religions. The best book written that deals with this topic. (318 pp., end notes)

- Pearcey, Nancy. Total Truth: Liberating Christianity from Its Cultural Captivity. Wheaton, IL: Crossway Books, 2004. Probably the most thorough critique of the fact/value dichotomy and its devastating effect on contemporary culture available today. However, given that her thesis is adopted from her mentor Francis Shaeffer, students of philosophy may object to her explanation of how our culture got where it is today, especially in her treatment of Thomas Aquinas. This should not detract too much from the book's valuable contributions. (479 pp., bibliography, end notes, index, appendices)
- Sampson, Philip J. Six Modern Myths about Christianity and Western Civilization. Downers Grove: InterVarsity, 2000. "In the often startling book, Philip Sampson dispels [myths] about the ecological crisis, missionaries, evolution and more all at the borders of Christianity and Western civilization." [from the back cover] (197 pp., endnotes, bibliography, index)
- Sproul, R. C., John Gerstner and Arthur Lindsley. Classical Apologetics: A Rational Defense of the Christian Faith and a Critique of Presuppositional Apologetics. Grand Rapids, MI: Academie Books, 1984. Not only a good classical apologetic but also examines the presuppositional apologetics method of Cornelius Van Til. (364 pp., end notes, index)
- Strobel, Lee. The Case for Faith: A Journalist Investigates the Toughest Objections to Christianity. Grand Rapids: Zondervan Publishing House, 2000. "For those who may be feeling attracted to Jesus but who are faces with intellectual barriers standing squarely in their path." (from the cover) (409 pp., bibliography, endnotes, index)
- Wallace, J. Warner. Cold-Case Christianity: A Homicide Detective Investigates the Claims of the Gospels. Colorado Springs: David C. Cook, 2013.
- _____. God's Crime Scene: A Cold-Case Detective Examines the Evidence for a Divinely Created Universe. Colorado Springs: David C. Cook, 2015. (320 pp., endnotes, bibliography)

Philosophy

- Corduan, Winfried. Handmaid to Theology: An Essay in Philosophical Prolegomena. Grand Rapids: Baker Book House, 1981. Deals with the philosophical categories that necessarily help to shape theology showing "the inevitable reliance of theology on certain philosophical concepts." (from the cover) (184 pp., bibliography, index)
- DeWeese, Garrett J. and J. P. Moreland. Philosophy Made Slightly Less Difficult: A Beginners Guide to Life's Big Questions. Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity Press, 2005. A helpful introduction to the major areas of philosophy including logic, metaphysics, epistemology and ethics by two leading Christian philosophers. (170 pp., bibliography, end notes)
- Feser, Edward. Aquinas: A Beginner's Guide. Oxford: Oneworld, 2009. A very helpful introduction to the major aspects of Aquinas' thought. Feser is one of the best at

- explaining complex ideas in very accessible ways. (205 pp., endnotes, bibliography, index)
- Geisler, Norman L. False Gods of Our Times: A Defense of the Christian Faith. Eugene, OR: Harvest House, Publishers, 1985. Very understandable and practical. Answers the false gods of atheism, pantheism, and naturalism and their attacks on God, Christ, and miracles. (206 pp., bibliography, end notes, glossary, index)
- _____. Is Man the Measure? An Evaluation of Contemporary Humanism. Grand Rapids:

 Baker Book House, 1983. A thorough examine of various versions of humanism. (201 pp., footnotes, bibliography)
- ______. Miracles and the Modern Mind: A Biblical Defense of Biblical Miracles. Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan Publishing House, 1992. A complete re-working of his Miracles and Modern Thought, this work is a cogent philosophical justification of the rationality of belief in miracles. Deals with the major philosophical attacks against miracles, particularly David Hume's. (163 pp., footnotes, bibliography, subject and person indices)
- Geisler, Norman L. and Ronald M. Brooks. Come Let Us Reason: An Introduction to Logical Thinking. Grand Rapids: Baker Book House, 1990. A handy guide to the fundamental principles of logical thinking. Covers syllogisms, informal fallacies, scientific thinking and more. (232 pp., exercises and answers, subject index)
- Geisler, Norman L. and Paul D. Feinberg, Introduction to Philosophy: A Christian Perspective. Grand Rapids: Baker Book House, 1987. A basic introduction the main issues and categories of philosophy including knowledge, reality and God. (447 pp., glossary)
- Geisler, Norman and Winfried Corduan. Philosophy of Religion, 2nd ed. Grand Rapids: Baker Book House, 1988. A thorough treatment of the philosophical issue surrounding religion, including religious experience, reason, language and the problem of evil. (402 pp., footnotes, bibliography, subject and name indices)
- Geisler, Norman L. and William D. Watkins. Worlds Apart: A Handbook on World Views. Grand Rapids, MI: Baker Book House, 1989. [Originally titled Perspectives: Understanding and Evaluating Today's World Views. Here's Life Publishers, 1984.] A handy reference to various world views and how they differ from the Christian world view. Helps Christians understand ". . . where others are coming from." Deals with atheism, polytheism, pantheism, panentheism, finite godism, and deism. (268 pp., chapter end notes, index, bibliography, glossary)
- Geivett, R. Douglas and Gary R. Habermas, eds. In Defense of Miracles: A Comprehensive Case for God's Action in History. Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity Press, 1997. The best work to come out on the subject since Geisler's Miracles and Modern Thought. Contains articles by such noted Christian scholars as Norman Geisler, J. P. Moreland, Francis J. Beckwith, William Lane Craig. Also contains the seminal work against miracles by

- David Hume, as well as an article by a contemporary Humean, atheist Antony Flew. (330 pp., end notes, bibliography)
- Groothuis, Douglas. Truth Decay: Defending Christianity Against the Challenges of Postmodernism. Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity Press, 2000. "The concept of truth as absolute, objective and universal has undergone serious deterioration in recent years. What factors have accelerated this decay of truth? In this spirited presentation of a solid, biblical and logical perspective, the author unveils how truth has come under attack." (from the cover) (303 pp., name and subject indices)
- Guinness, Os. Fit Bodies Fat Minds: Why Evangelicals Don't Think and What To Do About It. Grand Rapids, MI: Baker Book House, 1994. "Os Guinness traces the retreat of the evangelical mind and the dumbing down of evangelicalism through popular culture." (from the cover) (160 pp., end notes)
- Hoover, A. J. Don't You Believe It! Poking Holes in Faulty Logic. Chicago: Moody Press, 1982. Though strictly speaking not an apologetics book, this is a very helpful guide to the types of fallacies people commonly make in their reasoning. Can help one be on guard against subtle, fallacious arguments. (132 pp.)
- Howe, Thomas. Objectivity in Biblical Interpretation. N.c.: Advantage Inspirational, 2004. More than just a work on the principles of hermeneutics, Howe delves into the complexities of the philosophy of language to uncover the relationship that language bears to reality, showing our ability as God's creatures to know objectively the meaning of the biblical text. Norman Geisler comments in the forward "Professor Howe's deep knowledge of biblical languages, theology, and philosophy have enabled him to produce simply the best defense of the Evangelical belief in an objective interpretation of Scripture. This is truly a milestone and monumental work on this vital topic. In my forty-five years of teaching, I have seen nothing like it." (549 pp., chapter end notes, bibliography, person index)
- Moreland, J. P. Love Your God with All Your Mind: The Role of Reason in the Life of the Soul. Colorado Springs: Nav Press, 1997. A challenging book showing the importance of being a thinking Christian and how to develop a Christian mind to "further God's kingdom through evangelism, apologetics, worship, and vocation." (from the cover) (245 pp., end notes, appendices)
- Noebel, David A. Understanding the Times: The Story of the Biblical Christian, Marxist/Leninist and Secular Humanist Worldviews. Manitou Springs, CO: Summit Press, 1991. This massive work defends the Christian world view in the areas of theology, philosophy, ethics, biology, psychology, sociology, law, politics, economics, and history. A very thorough examination. (896 pp., chapter end notes, appendices, index)

The Existence and Attributes of God/Problem of Evil

- Augros, Michael. Who Designed the Designer? A Rediscovered Path to God's Existence. San Francisco: Ignatius, 2015. (250 pp., appendices, index)
- Broocks, Rice. God's Not Dead: Evidence for God in an Age of Uncertainty. Nashville: W Publishing Group/Thomas Nelson, 2013. "Drawing from the areas of philosophy, science, history, and theology, we can form persuasive arguments for God's existence and His presence in our lives. This book equips us with the tools, providing clear, easy-to-follow explanations of the key concepts and controversies." [from the back cover] (278 pp., endnotes, index)
- Copan, Paul and Matthew Flannagan. Did God Really Command Genocide? Coming to Terms with the Justice of God. Grand Rapids: Baker, 2014. "In the tradition of his popular Is God a Moral Monster?, Paul Copan teams up with Matthew Flannagan to tackle some of the ost confusion and uncomfortable passages of Scripture. Together they help the Christian and nonbeliever alike understand the biblical, theological, philosophical, and ethical implications of Old Testament warfare passages." [from the back cover] (351 pp., endnotes)
- Craig, William Lane. The Existence of God & the Beginning of the Universe. Here's Life Publishers, 1979. A popular version of Craig's technical work, The Kalam Cosmological Argument. A very intriguing argument for God's existence from the impossibility of an infinite past. (107 pp., chapter end notes)
- ______. The Kalam Cosmological Argument. New York: Macmillan, 1979, republished, Eugene: Wipf and Stock, 2000. From the Library of Philosophy and Religion series edited by John Hick, this book champions a modern version of a formidable yet little known philosophical argument for the existence of God that reigned in Islam from the Middle Ages. Employs arguments from transfinite arithmetic and contemporary astronomy. (216 pp., end notes, index)
- Craig, William Lane and Walter Sinnott-Armstrong. God? A Debate Between a Christian and an Atheist. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2004. An interesting exchange on the existence of God by two philosophers. (156 pp., index)
- Craig, William Lane and Quentin Smith. Theism, Atheism, and Big Bang Cosmology. Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1995. "Contemporary science presents us with the remarkable theory that the universe began to exist about fifteen billion years ago with a cataclysmic explosion, the 'Big Bang.' But was this explosion created by God, or did it occur with cause? This book set out ... a sustained debate between two philosophers ... who by turns defend opposing positions in alternating chapters." [from the cover] A technical work that assumes knowledge of quantum physics to fully appreciate. (342 pp., subject index)

- Davies, Brian. The Reality of God and the Problem of Evil. London: Continuum, 2006. "Davies suggests that we should start by attending to certain 'basics'—by asking why me might have reason to believe in God in the first place and by considering what our knowledge of God tell us (or does not tell us) about his nature. He then considers a number of famous attempts to deal with the problem of evil, and suggests that almost all of them fall short in various ways." [from the cover] (264 pp., endnotes, bibliography, index)
- . Thomas Aquinas on God and Evil. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2011. "The first in-depth study of Saint Thomas Aquinas's thoughts on God and evil ... a clear and engaging guide for anyone who struggles with the relation of God and theology to the problem of evil." [from the back cover] (172 pp., endnotes, bibliography, index)
- Dembski, William A. and Michael R. Licona. Evidence for God: Fifty Arguments for Faith from the Bible, History, Philosophy, and Science. Grand Rapids: Baker, 2010. Contributions from Darrell Bock, L. Russ Bush, III, Paul Copan, Gary R. Habermas and others. (272 pp., end notes)
- Day, Vox. The Irrational Atheist: Dissecting the Unholy Trinity of Dawkins, Harris, and Hitchens. Dallas: Benbella Books, 2008. "In this devastating critique of the anti-theistic arguments ... Day skillfully demonstrates to even the most skeptical reader that the New Atheists are no champions of Reason, but rather abandon Reason in their arguments against religion." [from the flyleaf] (305 pp., footnotes, appendices, bibliography)
- Dolezal, James E. God without Parts: Divine Simplicity and the Metaphysics of God's Absoluteness. Eugene: Pickwick Publications, 2011. "Dolezel [examines] the implications of divine simplicity for God's existence, attributes, knowledge, and will. Dolezal interacts extensively with older writers, such as Thomas Aquinas and the Reformed scholastics, as well as more recent philosophers and theologians." [from the back cover] (239 pp., footnotes, bibliography, index)
- Feser, Edward. The Last Superstition: A Refutation of the New Atheism. South Bend: St. Augustine's Press, 2008. A powerful philosophical critique of the bankruptcy of contemporary mechanistic science and its role in the rising of the New Atheism. (299 pp., end notes, index)
- Ganssle, Gregory E. Thinking about God: First Steps in Philosophy. Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity Press, 2004. An excellent introduction to philosophy of religion. Ganssle covers issues such as the existence and attributes of God and the problem of evil. He also lays out the elements of the current open theism debate. (187 pp., bibliography, index)
- Geisler, Norman L. Creating God in the Image of Man? The New "Open" View of God-Neotheism's Dangerous Drift. Minneapolis: Bethany House Publishers, 1997. Exposes the drift away for a classical view of God and His attributes within contemporary evangelicalism. (191 pp., index)

- . If God, Why Evil? A New Way to Think about the Question. Minneapolis: Bethany House, 2011. "If God is all-good and all-powerful, why is there suffering in the world? Can't God put an end to murder, rape, and starvation? ... In this concise but thorough book, Dr. Norman Geisler carefully answers these tough questions using step-by-step explanations and compelling examples." [from the cover] (173 pp., bibliography)
- Geisler, Norman L., H. Wayne House and Max Herrera. The Battle for God: Responding to the Challenge of Neotheism. Grand Rapids: Kregel Publications, 2001. A more in-depth examination than Creating God in the Image of Man? this work not only deals with the encroachment of the "open" view but also the more subtle attacks on other classical attributes of God. (336 pp., bibliography, index)
- Hitchens, Peter. The Rage Against God: How Atheism Let Me to Faith. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 2010. "Two brothers. Two beliefs. Two revolted. One returned." [from the cover] (224 pp.)
- House, H. Wayne. Charts on Open Theism and Orthodoxy. Grand Rapids: Kregel, 2003. A handy cross-reference on various aspects of the battle between the new "open" view of God and the classic orthodox view of God. (139 pp., bibliography)
- Huffman, Douglas S. and Eric L. Johnson, eds. God Under Fire: Modern Scholarship Reinvents God. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 2002. A response to recent attacks on the classical Christian view of God, this work addresses such issues as God and time, whether God changes, and God and evil. Contributors include Paul Helm, William Lane Craig, D. A. Carson and others. (325 pp. Scripture, author, and subject indices)
- Jastrow, Robert. God and the Astronomers. New York: W. W. Norton, 1978. A summary of scientific evidence that points to the possibility of a cosmic creator and designer by an agnostic astronomer. (136 pp., index)
- McCabe, Herbert. God and Evil in the Theology of St. Thomas Aquinas. "[McCabe] demonstrates why it cannot be shown that evil disproves God's existence. He also explains how we can rightly think of evil in a world made by God." [from the back cover] (205 pp., appendices, bibliography, index)
- Marshall, David. The Truth Behind the New Atheism: Responding to the Emerging Challenges to God and Christianity. Eugene, OR: Harvest House Publishers, 2007. A very well written and penetrating critique of the latest flood of atheism as characterized by Richard Dawkins, Sam Harris, and Christopher Hitchens. (236 pp., end notes)
- Miethe, Terry and Antony Flew. Does God Exist? A Believer and an Atheist Debate. New York: Harper Collins Publishers, 1991. Examines many aspects of the question including the burden of proof, God and metaphysics, the significance of choice, and the ultimates and limits of explanation. Also contains contributions from A. J. Ayer, Richard Swinburne, and a forward by Hans Küng. (296 pp., end notes, appendices, bibliography)

- Moreland, J. P. and Kai Nielsen. Does God Exist? The Debate Between Theists & Atheist. Amherst, NY: 1993. [Originally published as Does God Exist? The Great Debate. Nashville: Thomas Nelson Publishers, 1990.] Contains the transcripts of a debate which took place in March, 1987 at the University of Mississippi. Also contains articles by two other Christian philosophers, William Lane Craig and Dallas Willard, and articles by two other atheists, Keith Parsons and Antony Flew. Deals not only with the existence of God, but with the relationship of God to morality. (320 pp., chapter end notes, bibliography)
- Rhodes, Ron. Answering the Objections of Atheists, Agnostics, & Skeptics. Eugene, OR: Harvest House Publishers, 2006. A very accessible treatment of sometimes difficult subject matter. Rhodes deals with the existence of God, evolution and intelligent design, morality, the reliability of the Bible, the evidence for Jesus and His resurrection, and the problem of evil. (294 pp., bibliography, end notes, appendices)
